

Loving the Overlooked

BRETT & KRISTIN SANNER IN ATHENS, GREECE

16 JUNE 2012

A New Season

In our family, we're excited to greet each new season. Every season offers something unique: spring flowers (Kristin's favorite), ice cream in the summer (Emma's favorite), football in the fall (Brett's favorite), and the first snowfall of winter (Sofia's favorite). As one season slips into the next, we celebrate the new... and a part of us mourns what's passing by.

This is how we feel today after five years in Athens, Greece. We've said our goodbyes, packed our things, and are now back in the US. And now we enter a season of transition. This means at least two things for us: First, it's an opportunity to reconnect with friends, family, and our sending churches. We can't wait to see you face-to-face, and thank you for your role in this ministry!

Secondly, we are continuing to seek God for what's next. While we look for the right ministry fit in this new season, we deeply appreciate your prayers!

In addition, International Teams will continue to forward your support/gifts to us until the end of September. This will allow us to retrain our health insurance and cover our living expenses during this transition period. Thank you for your support during this time of transition. By God's Grace:

On May 9th, we welcomed Joy Elise Sanner into the world and into our family. Thanks so much for your prayers!

Our last month was full of many hard goodbyes. We will certainly miss our friends, teammates, and ministry in Athens...

...at the same time, we're excited to welcome what God has for us next. We are thankful for your continued prayers.
